Submissions

Subject	Name	Representing Organisation	Submission Received in form of
Matter No. 1646 {Napoli v BSC, L&E Court 2020}	John Anderson		To be read by staff

Question No. 1 Wilshire Webb

John Anderson asked (read by staff) the following question:

Given that Wilshire Webb were Max Eastcott's personal lawyers when he appeared before ICAC in 1995 and that subsequently this firm were selected as Council's lawyers out of a field of 28 applicants, and given that the firm was quite controversial during its tenure prior to having their services "discontinued" about 20 years ago, what is the basis for Council's reinstatement of said firm in recent times, as per their involvement in Napoli v BSC [2020] NSW LEC 1646?

Legal Counsel responded:

Wilshire Webb Staunton Beattie is not a member of Council's external legal services panel.

In 2018 Council awarded contracts for external legal services to four firms one of which was Swaab Attorneys.

Since then Council developed a strong professional relationship with Swaab's planning and environment law partner.

When that partner ceased employment at Swaab and became a partner at Wilshire Webb Staunton Beattie, Council continued its relationship with that partner.

Council's legal services contracts provide that Council may at its discretion, allocate work to non-contracted legal services providers.

DELEGATES' REPORTS

1. Sustainable Cities Urban Regeneration Sustainability Development Forum

Cr Richardson advised:

Yesterday I presented at the second Sustainable Cities Urban Regeneration Sustainability Development Forum via zoom. The thing I want to mention is the part of the presentation about our zero emissions projects, that I talked quite strongly about the fact that we are representing our community who want us to do these sorts of things. I just think it's interesting that at some point it might be for all of us to consider, both this side of the chamber and potentially in the audience and various positions, is how true is that, as a community?

I will note for example the mayoral vehicle is now an EV. Now I would have thought that our community would see that at the same price as a normal vehicle, of course we would want an EV. Half of the fact is that we save a few thousand dollars every year so wouldn't we, as a community, be proud that Council's doing that? It's just interesting that when we launched it, I said we should do a little promotion about it even though we'll cop the "haters" - which we did on Facebook. Although the vast bulk said "cool". Even our local paper decided to smack into us. I understand it was probably an anti Simon Richardson hate comment as always, but really? Do we actually not want this Council to have an EV?

It's just strange that I'm asked to present at national and global conferences and I always talk about how our community demands to be part of the change and yet sometimes... there's solar farms that are leaving because well-healed people don't want to look at it. Even a basic thing of a $45,000 car transitioning into a $43,000 EV which will save $5,000 or $6,000 a year, that we get blow back on that. It's quite a fascinating thing how much we are actually willing to walk our talk.

BYRON SHIRE COUNCIL

ORDINARY (PLANNING) MEETING MINUTES

11 February 2021

Having said that the presentation went well and the rest of Australia, both local government, university professors and the industry, were really impressed about what we do. Which happens every time I speak nationally or internationally and even locally.

2. Women's Village Meeting

Cr Ndiaye advised:

Earlier this week I went to a meeting with the Women's Village that is looking to help bridge the gap for affordable housing for women, particularly in the Shire. It was well attended with people that are still committed to making some changes in that space and trying to get some things happening. I sort of feel like that was one of the main things that I came on to Council to do and everything just takes a lot longer than anyone would want it to but we're still committed to delivering on that.

It was great to see so many other people from the community coming together, whether it was from a philanthropic perspective, North Coast Community Housing, and other people continuing to push for it because what's happening in the broader community at the moment in relation to accessible and affordable housing is dire. We're losing more and more families that have been here for a really long time, that work here, that have kids at school; I know one group of 20 year olds who were all just evicted because somebody else wants to put a family in there; a nurse or a mental health worker and a disability support worker who have all just been effected.

It's very, very complicated and we need to come up with solutions. Hopefully this meeting will bear fruit sooner rather than later.

3. Homelessness Forum

Cr Richardson advised:

Myself, Ms Adams, the General Manager and a couple of other staff members hosted a homelessness forum with Minister Ward a week or so ago which was really good. Staff did the organisation proud in how it shared our challenges and I think the objective of getting the Minister to be far more clearly aware of the scope of our problem here was well put and well received. Hopefully it will actually lead to a significant change.

4. Australia Day

Although not a delegate's report, the Mayor acknowledged and congratulated all Australia Day award winners in the Shire and all those that were nominated, who themselves could have all been eligible for awards. He also thanked staff for preparing the event.
